MY FATHER TAUGHT ME
WHEN I WAS A LITTLE

BUT WON'T REALLY
KILL A MAN...

...UNLESS YOU GET HIM IN THE TENDER FACE.

NOW I'LL ASK YOU ONE
LAST TIME.
WHO AM I?

IN YOUR CONVERSATIONAL
ABILITIES, AS I KNOW WHO
YOU ARE. I'M SORRY, MY EYES AREN'T GOOD ANYMORE.
I COULDN'T SEE YOU WHEN I

UP CLOSE--I KNEW YOUR BLOOD.

YES, YOU KNEW MY UNCLE.

WILL

YOU LOOK LIKE HIM.

MY NAME'S
GENE. WILL WAS MY
UNCLE. I ONLY KNEW HIM
THESE LAST FEW YEARS.
HE WAS SICK WHEN HE BROUGHT ME INTO THE FOLD TO BE HIS REPLACEMENT.

TO US, TO HIS FAMILY, HE DIED BACK
IN 1925. I ONLY LEARNED
ABOUT THE VASSALS,
ABOUT HOW THEY'D TAKEN
HIM IN TO BE BOOK-KEEPER, ABOUT FIVE YEARS AGO. I WAS A JOURNALIST.

A WAR CORRESPONDENT,
BUT WITH NO WAR. I WAS IN A BAD WAY, AND THEN, ONE
MORNING, I'M STANDING IN MY KITCHEN, OPENING A BEER
FOR BREAKFAST, AND WHO'S STANDING THERE BUT UNCLE WILL.

SAYS HE WAS A WAR
FOR ME TO COVER.

"WELL...IT WASN'T LONG AFTER SWEET WAS RECRUITED. YOU PUT IN FOR A MISSION WITH HIM. HOBBS OBLIGED, THINKING YOU WERE OVER YOUR HATRED OF SWEET BY THEN..."

"...THAT YOU WERE TRYING TO PROVE SOME POINT, GOING BACK OUT INTO THE FIELD AFTER SO LONG, WITH HIM AT YOUR SIDE."

"BUT?"

"BUT...YOU WEREN'T OVER IT."

"SWEET RESCUED
YOU AND TOOK YOU
BACK FOR HELP."

ON THE LEDGE

For hours now, I've been trying to come up with a good opener for this column, some expression to start off, a play on words, a pun, something clever. But the truth is, there are only two words to open this column with, and they are: "Thank you."

For three years now, you've followed us on our crazy journey, in the pages of AMERICAN VAMPIRE, for a collected total of forty-three issues, across more than eight hundred pages of comics. But more than issues or pages, we've traveled together, with these characters we've loved – Pearl and Skinner, Henry, Felicia, Gus and Cal – across time, through more than six decades of American history, across oceans and back, from the dusty plains of the Old West to the bright suburbs of the 1950s. It's been a wild ride so far, full of horrors and wonders, deaths and rebirths, Rafael and I couldn't be more grateful to you all for traveling these fictional roads with us.

I just want to make it absolutely crystal clear about the hiatus of this series (which starts with issue #34): this is not indefinite. In fact, it's a very short break Rafa and I are taking so that we can recharge and, more important, get far enough ahead on the coming stories to allow Rafa to draw more of the arcs in the second cycle of AMERICAN VAMPIRE. We've loved everyone who's joined the AMERICAN VAMPIRE family on fill-ins and on miniseries, but for the final half of the series, the half where everything we've built so far converges and comes crashing together, Rafa and I decided we wanted to do more of the stories the two of us, as a team and co-creators.

And, even though AMERICAN VAMPIRE will be on break, don't worry! There are a bunch of great new series coming your way in 2013. I'll be doing a new limited series – a science-fiction horror epic about the mysteries of the deep – with the amazing Sean Murphy (who did AMERICAN VAMPIRE: SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST). And my pal Jeff Lemire will be launching a limited series, too – a brilliant science fiction piece called Trillium – which is literally about the last love story in the universe.

So yes, we're taking a break and then we'll be back (in fact, the story that brings us back is already written!), bigger, better, and badder than ever. And as you can tell from hints and clues in issue 34, the best is yet to come. That all of us on AMERICAN VAMPIRE can promise you. Thank you again, from the bottom of our black, twisted hearts.
